

E-Waste

Did you know that most electronic equipment or e-waste can no longer be disposed of along with your household trash at curbside? State law now places restrictions on its disposal because of potential environmental hazards.

Recycling e-waste is the best environmentally responsible solution. Your effort promotes material reuse and saves money in the long run.

Your garbage collection contractor ENCON will no longer be picking up electronics with your recyclables and may sticker certain items alerting you to the new law.

You can drop off e-waste at the Town of Babylon Residential Recycling Center, located at 57 Field Street, West Babylon, NY 11704. If the item is too bulky you may request that it be picked up by the Town by calling (631) 249-9346. Materials defined as e-waste include but are not limited to:

- Computers and accessories
- Cathode ray tubes
- Personal music players
- Televisions
- VCRs/DVD players
- Tablets
- Stereo equipment
- Fax/copy machines

Electronics retailers are required to accept e-waste.

Thank you!
